EIDS

Two religious festivals are celebrated in Turkey every year. One of them is called Ramadan Feast, and the other one is Sacrifice Feast. Actually, Muslims all over the world celebrate these two festivals. However, people in some countries call them differently. These celebrations are known as Eids, and they're very important to the Islamic world.

Muslims fast in the daytime during the month of Ramadan. They also help the needy. They believe it's their religious duty to give alms to the poor. At the end of this holy month, Ramadan Feast is celebrated. It lasts for three days. Early in the morning on the first day, Muslim men go to mosques and perform special prayers. Children wear new clothes. They are given gifts like candies and coins. Schools and offices are closed so family members enjoy the celebrations together. Relatives, friends and neighbors visit each other to improve relationships. During this Eid, people eat special food like baklava and Turkish delight.

The other festival, Sacrifice Feast lasts for four days. It's celebrated at the end of Hajj, the religious journey. Millions of Muslims visit the holy city of Mecca in Saudi Arabia every year. Muslims try to go on this pilgrimage at least once in their lifetime. During the pilgrimage, animals such as sheep, goats and cows are sacrificed. Those unable to go on a pilgrimage sacrifice animals near their homes and give most of the meat to the poor. People enjoy festive meals together. The most popular dish is kavurma. Besides, many people have barbecues with their loved ones.
